NEW ORLEANS, May 14.

Accounts from Red river are gloomy.—Loss of the river cotton lands are under water. Cotton reports from all the southwest are gloomy. Tornadoes have made fearful havoc.

Dr. Gwinn has been released from Fort Jackson, and will be here tomorrow morning.

LOUISVILLE, May 14.

The tenement buildings on Fourth and Bullet streets was burned this forenoon—Loss $53,000. Insured $24,300, principally in home companies. A fire is now (11 p. m.) raging on the premises of Geo. Prabston, plumber, on Market street. A total destruction of the establishment and the contiguous buildings is feared.

NEW YORK, May 14.

The indictment against Jeff. Davis contains but one general specification, which is to the effect that he conspired with others on the 15th of June, 1864, by force of arms, to overthrow the government of the United States.

The address of General Mosquera, the new President of Columbia, to the people of that Republic, denounces the last insurrectionary movement and gives assurance that he will protect every citizen in the enjoyment of his rights. Treaties of friendship, commerce, relative to postal affairs with England, were concluded by him before that country. He also arrived at an agreement with the Papal Government, concerning the administration of ecclesiastical affairs, which has been a subject for a long dispute between the ecclesiastical authorities.

The church will continue to be separate from the State.

The Herald's St. Thomas, West India, correspondent says?

The idea of annexation to the United States is extending, and is well received in all the West India islands.

The Mexican legation say Santa Anna is a French spy, and hope if he reaches Chihuahua he will be speedily hanged.

TAE COAL QUESTION. Since John Stuart Mill brought forward in Parliament the calculation which he said he had tried in vain to compute, that in three generations the coal of England would become too scarce and dear to enable her to contute with other manufacturing nations, public attention has been much turned to the American supply of coal. A special report on the subject has been sent to the British Foreign Office, by Mr. Hume Burnley, which gathers up all the known statistics on the subject. The coal area of the United States has been estimated to cover 133,182 square miles, or over 85,000,000 of acres. This is equivalent to nearly three-fourths of the coal areas of the principal coal producing countries of the world. About 437 square miles are occupied by the anthracite deposits of Pennsylvania. The coal formations of British America are computed to have an area of 18,000 square miles.

The immense importance of our coal supply may be apprehended from a few comparative statements. The average thickness of the workable coal of Great Britain has been estimated at 35 feet, and its superficial area at 12,000 square miles. Its total quantity is 190,000,000,000 tons. But assuming that American coal beds have an average thickness of only 20 feet, they will give a total product of 4,000,000,000,000 tons. Again, we have one square mile of coal field to 15 square miles of territory; Great Britain one to every 30 of surface; and France one to every 200. Finally, Professor Rogers gives a striking exhibit of the relative magnitude of the coal deposits of different countries by comparing them with a unit of measure, which he supposes to be one hundred square miles. In this case—Russia will be represented by 1; Spain, 2; anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania, 4; Westphalia and Bohemia, 4; Belgium, 5; France, 10; Rhenish Prussia, 10; British Provinces of North America, 17; British Islands, 40; Europe, 75; Pennsylvania, 126; Apalachian coal-field, 556; the entire coal fields of the United States, 2200. "Whichever way," says an English writer, "the foregoing figures are taken, they clearly represent the enormous coal producing power of North America and the vast wealth of mineral possessed by that country."

The democratic evening paper of Washington, in a long and carefully written editorial article on the relations of the democratic party to the President, uses the following significant language.

President Johnson is the natural and inevitable leader of the democrats in the great battle now going on for constitutional liberty. There is, on the part of the democracy, the most cordial feelings towards such republicans as shall break loose from the trammels of faction and take their stand with us, for re-construction. We know no difference between such men as Cowan, Dixon, Norton, Doolittle and others of like character, and our own accepted leaders. They deserve to be sustained and honored in their position, and they will be. We repudiate every idea that the President looks to the formation of a third party to supersede the democratic organization, or that such a scheme were capable of accomplishment, even if it were desirable. Still less can we believe that he cherishes any purposes of so distributing the honors and patronage of his administration, that the members of the only conservative organization in the land shall be permanently excluded from all participation therein. Rome was not built in a day. The democracy are not starving for office, nor need they be in a hurry. They and all sensible men know that the President has hardly yet begun to consider, still less to act on these questions; but we have assurances that he will not overlook the great party on which he now leans for support.—[Wash. cor. The Reason Why.

In commenting upon the amendment reported by the Reconstruction Committee, the Copperhead papers, and the few Republican journals which faithfully support President Johnson's policy, declare that it ought not to be passed because no rebel State will ratify it, and consequently it cannot be made a part of the Constitution. Now we believe that several of the former rebel States will ratify it, rather than be kept out of their beloved political power indefinitely. But suppose they refuse, to what are we to attribute that refusal. Plainly and only to the course which President Johnson has seen fit to pursue; and for the same reason they would refuse to ratify any plan containing conditions which Congress might see fit to impose. One year ago, if Congress had been called together, and had said to the rebel States, "You can be reinstated in these halls by ratifying these amendments, they would have accepted with the same degree of readiness at least with which they submitted to the abolition of their cherished institution of slavery, and might have been this day represented by truly loyal men. But no extra session of Congress was called—President Johnson undertook to "reconstruct" himself—reversed all his own declared intentions of punishing treason—said to Congress when it did meet in December, "Here is my policy, which I intend to see carried out! The rebel States are now in my opinion sufficiently loyal in mind, and I say that their constitutional rights require the immediate admission of their representatives, provided they are willing to take the oath." This was declaring to Congress substantially that he considered that body to have nothing whatever to do with the question of reconstruction, beyond the mere ability or willingness of the rebel representatives to take the test oath. The Executive had imposed all the conditions which he saw fit to impose, and it remained only for Congress to register his decrees.

In this state of things, of course the rebels have little disposition to show any more humility or repentance for their vast and bloody crime against the government—but have many of them become almost as insolent, haughty, domineering and cruel as of old—and only await the withdrawal of the remaining military restraint to become entirely so. Already there is no safety for a colored man's life or property there—as no man has any property interest in a "nigger," and the controlling classes do not make any effectual attempts to prevent the devilish cruelties and outrages perpetrated by the old-fashioned myrmidons of slavery. In a short time, if thing go on, no Union white man will be any safer in the South than a Union colored man. The fact is, the rebels think that they now have President Johnson as their defender, instead of their stern and just judge, and they accordingly spit at and defy Congress and the loyal people of the North. They believe, (but here we think they are wofully mistaken), that President Johnson can be deluded or incensed into the fatal infatuation of recognizing their members, (in connection with the northern copperheads) as the Congress, and suppressing the loyal representatives by force—and that they should have the President at their head in another rebellion against the Republic. No such scheme can be successful with the President—but if it were, there could be but one result—the instant and entire uprising of the loyal North, and the effectual and final extinguishment of the enemies of republicanism and equal rights in this land. There is no need of any such sharp and terrible contest, if the President will let the rebels know that the terms required by Congress must be accepted, or they must remain as they are, merely conquered insurgents; but if come it must the loyal North will be found ready for it.—What is the alternative? If the rebel States are at once admitted to full political power and without constitutional restrictions, the rebels and copperheads will in all probability obtain possession of the government, and then their revengeful, cruel and oppressive acts will inevitably bring on another more bloody and destructive civil contest. That the present ideas in the South relative to President Johnson are such as we represent there is much evidence daily received. Recently Governor Boutwell received a letter from a gentleman of high standing, sometime resident in Georgia, in which he says:

"No colored man's life is safe in Georgia and Florida. Murders of negroes by white men are of every day occurrence, and the civil authorities say we have nothing to do with it, and these atrocities go unwhipped of justice. I declare what I know and testify of that I have seen when I say there is no protection to the negro in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Nobody owns a negro now, and he is shot down by every drunken rebel with as much impunity as they shoot crows or blackbirds. My word for it, the colored people of these States are the only lovers of the Union. A year ago the white rebels were as humble as whipped spaniels, now they are elated, insolent, defiant and, in my judgment, it is owing to the policy of Mr. Johnson, whom they consider their friend, in contradistinction to the Senate and House of Representatives. The truth is, there is no Union sentiment. The policy of the national government discourages it, and the military authorities, with the attaches of the Freedmen's Bureau are cowering before this policy."

THE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' CONVENTION. In speaking of this convention which, as we stated yesterday, assembles this forenoon in this city, The Portland Press has the following remarks:

We hope the meeting will be fully attended, and that not only here but throughout the State every man who stood by the flag by sea or land, during the late war, will make an effort to be present at the Bangor gathering. This reunion of tried comrades in arms will be very pleasant socially.

The avowed objects of the Convention are eminently just and proper. It is proposed to organize a permanent Union, like the famous society of the Cincinnati, formed after the Revolutionary war, with certain privileges and obligations, with an appropriate badge of membership, and with the purpose not only of bringing the members socially nearer to each other but of protecting the special interests of soldiers and sailors, and in particular to assist the members of the Union—and other deserving soldiers or sailors, we trust—during the interval which inevitably comes between the muster-out and the full resumption of the occupations of peace. When a man comes home after an absence of three or four years, it is like beginning life over again. The busy world is as busy as ever, but the places are all full; and to the tired campaigner who, stands looking on, it seems that in all the vast procession there is no place left for him. Yet time does all things. After a little waiting opportunities arrive. It is during this discouraging period of waiting, that encouragement and perhaps assistance are needed.

Speaking of this Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention, a writer from Portland, evidently a military man, says:

It is our opinion that it is rather early in the season for the State to be fully and fairly represented in a Convention of this kind. The Convention Wednesday, as we understand it, is simply an experiment, to ascertain the feelings of the soldiers and sailors in regard to forming an Association, and not to complete any State organization.—But a small portion of the soldiers and sailors of the State are aware of this movement, and we trust that the Bangor Convention will simply form a temporary organization, and after defining more clearly the objects of a "Soldiers' and Sailors' State Association," takes steps to have local organizations formed in every town or county, which shall choose delegates to a grand "State Mass Convention" to be held in the month of July at Bangor or Portland, as thought best. In this way, time will be given to have a full representation of sentiment from every section of the State.

After repeated attempts and failures at starting a movement of this kind, the officers and soldiers of Bangor and vicinity, are entitled to lasting credit for their zeal and energy which has been crowned with success.

SOMETHING ABOUT COTTON MILLS. From an article in the Biddeford Journal, we glean some interesting facts about the early days of cotton manufacturing in the country. The first cotton mill built for the United States was at Beverly in 1787; the first one in Maine at Brunswick in 1809.—The first cotton mill in New Hampshire was at New Ipswich in 1804. Mr. Sam'l Batchelder, Treasurer of the York and Everett Mills, was concerned in building the second, on the same stream, in 1808; and of this enterprise it is said that the proprietors of the first mill were highly indignant about the building of the second, apprehending that the business would be overdone. Each of these mills had about five hundred spindles. In 1807 the whole number of spindles in the United States was 4,000; in 1860 there were 5,000,000, and now probably there are at least 5,200,000.

—The Calais Advertiser reports that the antimony mine near St. George's Lake on the Magaguadavic river is to be worked this season. A quantity of the ore has been sent to New York and smelted, and is pronounced superior to any yet discovered in any part of the world except that in France, and equally as good as that. The mine is said to be very extensive, and the gentleman who assayed some of the ore says it is of incalculable value.

ACCIDENT. The wife of Mr. Thomas W. Staples of this city, while examining paper hangings behind the counter in the store of Mr O. S. Andrews, on Monday, stepped backwards and fell down a trap-door leading to the cellar, which was open behind her, breaking her leg by the fall. She was immediately removed and received the necessary surgical attendance.—[Rockland Gazette.

A GRAND RESULT. A Portland correspondent of the Times says:

We are gratified to learn that the late Widows' and Orphans' Fair held in this city met with unparalleled success. The receipts are about $16,000, which will probably leave $14,000 for the noble cause for which it is intended.

—The Lewiston Journal says a gentleman living in Auburn last year raised $1900 worth of garden plants and vegetables on about one acre of land, and this year he will if ordinarily successful, get $3000 worth from the same land.

—The return of the 1st and 12th Maine battalions leaves but two Maine organizations in the service, viz:—the 15th and 20th regiments, commanded by Brevet-Colonel Murray and Lt.-Col. Emerson, respectively. The two regiments number about six hundred men.

—The new Congregational church erected in Augusta on the site of that which was destroyed by fire in July, 1864, is now nearly completed. It is a very handsome house, contains 140 pews, and will cost when finished about $50,000.

—Patents were granted last week to David Howarth of Portland for improvement in buttons, and to Ezra Johnson of Hermon for improved mode of connecting the joints of stove pipes and water conductors.

—A Boston paper says the schooner Sarah of Wells, Me., built over a century ago, arrived there Wednesday loaded with wood.

PERSONAL. Gen. Neal Dow will depart for Europe in the Peruvian, from Quebec, next Saturday.

—The Maine Universalist Annual Convention will be held at Auburn on the 26th, 27th and 28th of June.

—An East India paper reports that a sad accident happened near Shoolay. As an elephant was rubbing itself against the wall, it fairly pushed it down, causing the death of two out of three men who were sleeping on the other side of it.

CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS. A teaspoonful of fine table salt and a teaspoonful of camphorated spirit, diluted with warm water and sweetened, is said to be a sure cure for cholera morbus or diarrhea, if taken in season.

—Amos Kendall is about to make the tour of Europe with his family, to be gone eighteen months.

—Milton was asked:—"How is it that in some countries a king is allowed to take his place on the throne at fourteen years of age, but may not marry until he is eighteen?"—"Because," said the poet, "it is easier to govern a kingdom than a woman."

—An Arkansas Butternut advertises that "Any gal what has a coffee pot and skillet, and who knows how to take care of children, can hear of a situation by applying to John Smith."

—A London cabman said:—"If you run over a youngster down here, the folks don't say nothin' kase they have got more children and no wittles for 'em; but you jist run over a goat or a kid, or a sow or a pig, and I'm blest if a mob ain't arter you in two minits."

—"I always sing to please myself," said a gentleman who was humming a tune in company. "Then you are not at all difficult to please," said a lady who sat next to him.

—An English paper observes:—"If some of the speeches of our statesmen do not reach down to posterity it will not be because they are not long enough."

—Why is the assessor of taxes the best man in the world? Because he never tries to underrate anybody.

DR. J. W. POLAND'S

HUMOR DOCTOR.

This excellent medicinal remedy was first prepared by Dr. P. in 1847, and was then employed with great success in expelling humors from the blood; but in 1858, a medical friend, who was quite celebrated as a physician, especially in the treatment of humors, suggested some important improvements, which were adopted, and which have made it (as the people say,) the very best remedy for all kinds of humors known to "the faculty." This preparation is composed wholly of vegetables, among which are Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Burdock, Noble Pine, Mandrake, Senna and Bloodroot. Suffice it to say, the "Doctor" is used in hundreds of families as a general medicine. Unlike many other popular remedies, it is very grateful to the taste.

They are well adapted for Farmers' use, and with slight repairs will do good service. Can be seen at the stables on Wednesday morning, at which time they will be sold to the highest bidder.

This sale affords a rare opportunity for Teamsters, Railroad Contractors, Farmers, and others to supply themselves with waggons at a moderate price.

Reception of the Colorado Veto Message.

Some of the President's Reasons for the Veto.

Abstract of a Bill to Regulate the Issue of Currency.

Speech of Head Centre Stephens at a Fenian Meeting.

Terrible Fire in North Roylston, Vt.---Great Loss of Life

WASHINGTON, May 15.

Col D B. Warner of Ohio, recently appointed Consul at St. John, N. B., is a named soldier, who lost an arm at the attack on Fort Fisher.

The President's message was not formally laid before the Senate and therefore was not read. For this reason the message cannot now be presented to the country, but it was generally perused by several Senators, who on it takes ground that the erection of Colorado as a State is unnecessary for the welfare of the people, nor is it clearly established that the majority desire or are prepared for such change. The population is insufficient and has diminished rather than increased. In addition to these and other reasons it is stated the President says: Caution should be exercised in the admission of new States, especially as eleven of the States are now without representation and all should be consulted as to who shall be members of the Union.

The public reception by the President and daughters to-night was largely attended. Among the guests were two daughters of President Juarez, accompanied by M. Romero, the Mexican Minister and his wife.

The Internal Revenue Bureau gives notice to assessors and collectors that the joint resolution for the exemption of crude petroleum from internal tax and duty took effect from and after the 9th inst.

WASHINGTON, May 15.

The bill introduced in the Senate to-day by Mr Van Winkle authorizes and directs the Comptroller of Currency to apportion the issue as follows—

1st One half, or $150,000,000, shall be apportioned in proportion to the population.

2d The remaining half shall be apportioned to the value of the annual production of agriculture, manufactures and industry in each State and Territory, which value shall be determined from the best available information.

If any State shall have excess of above, the maximum allowed to each State, provision is made for a reduction of the issue. A deficiency may be brought up to the maximum, but a reduction shall take effect only as old circulating notes are to be turned into the Treasury to be cancelled, on account of circulation.

It also provides that in the organization of additional banks preference shall be given as far as practicable existing banks in good repute as shall signify a desire to the Comptroller to be cancelled into National Banks.

It suspends the operation of the provision of the internal revenue act of June 80, 1865, referring to State banks and banking associations until the 1st day of Jan. 1867.

NEW YORK, May 15.

Stephens received an enthusiastic ovation from the Fenians at Jones' Wood. About 5000 were present, but none but Roberts men were in attendance.

Mr. Stephens made a forcible address giving a history of the Fenian movement. He said he had received but little money from the country, and heart-burnings and scandal there were such as could only be compensated by Irish liberation. They only wanted money. Ireland had done twice as much as America in that way.' If Great Britain had become engaged in a Danish war, it was their purpose to have them taken up.

Steamer City of Limerick from Liverpool arrived. News anticipated.

NEW YORK, May 15.

An examination of the treasury of O'Mahoney, by direction of Head Centre Stephens says the Post, shows that only $500 remain, while by calling the lease of the Union Square Headquarters the sum of $11,000 could be obtained, so there is a $30,000, which none of the men who bought appear to know anything about.

MONTPELIER, Vt., May 15.

A terrible fire, attended with a shocking loss of lives, a heavy loss of property occurred in North Roylston, Vt., last night upon the premises of Mrs Lyman Burbank. The house was occupied by Mrs. Burbank and a hired man named Ballon, an adopted daughter of Mr Burbank, named Luce, and a Miss Dickerson, who was temporarily staying there at the time. Miss D. was the first to discover that the house was on fire, and immediately giving the alarm to the other inmates and all attempted to descend the stairs. They found it now too late, and Mr Ballon jumped from the window and procured a ladder that the rest might make good their escape. But returning he could find nothing of the two girls, and Mr. Burbank was found to have already been suffocated in the heat and flames. His body, however, was saved. The two girls were burned to ashes, nothing being found of them after the fire except the bones. The fire extended to the outbuildings of the premises and resulted in the total loss of the buildings, cattle, sheep, horses and hogs.—Take it altogether it was one of the most terrible and shocking disasters ever known in Vermont from any cause whatsoever.—Mr Burbank was by occupation drover and was quite well known. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective fireplace which was in use the day preceding.

FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, May 15.

Senate.

Mr Sherman, from the Committee on Finances, reported a bill to reduce the rate of interest of the national debt and for funding the same with an amendment which provides that the cost of disposing of bonds shall not exceed 1 per cent. of their amount. The provision before the amendment allowed two per cent. for preparing, issuing and disposing of such bonds.

Mr Sherman suggested to Mr Fessenden to set a day for calling up the above.

Mr Fessenden said he was opposed to the bill, and was not in favor of fixing any day for taking it up.

Mr Sherman said he would endeavor to call it up next week.

At 3 o'clock a message was received from the President vetoing the Colorado bill.

The bill to prevent smuggling was discussed and passed.

Mr McDougal called for the reading of the veto message.

Mr Fessenden moved that the Senate go into Executive session.

Mr McDougal said it was an act of courtesy to the President to read the message.

Mr Fessenden said there was no disrespect whatever to the President, in his motion; he merely wished to postpone the reading until to-morrow morning, when there would be a full Senate.

Mr McDougall said this was the first time a message had been denied a reading for so long; he could not but regard it as a vindictive assault upon the President.

The Senate went into Executive session. Adjourned.

House.

The bill to amend the organic act of the territories of Nebraska, Colorado, Dacotah, Montana, Washington, Idaho, Arizona, Utah and New Mexico was considered.

Mr LeBlonde moved to strike out the 9th section, prohibiting any denial of the elective franchise to citizens of the U. States because of race or color, and all persons shall be equal before the law. Rejected.

The bill was then passed—79 to 43.

The House, in Committee of the Whole, considered the Tax bill. The rate of interest where property is sold for taxes is reduced from 20 to 10 per cent. The committee progressed in the bill as far as page 44.

Messrs. Boutwell and Le Blond were excused from serving on special committe ordered to investigate the Memphis riots, and Messrs. Bromall and Shanklin were appointed in their stead. Adj.

IMPORTANT DECISION. In the town of Red River, Wisconsin, a man who had been a volunteer in the rebel army was elected by the copperheads Town Clerk and Justice of the Peace. His predecessors refused to yield office to him, and the Attorney General thereupon gave his opinion that having served as a volunteer in the rebel army, he had forfeited all political rights under the United States Government. Not having a right to vote, he could not hold office. 'No republic,' says the attorney, 'could live long, if its acknowledged enemies, without its consent, were allowed to participate in its administration."

The following ought to have been published several days since, but was accidentally mislaid :

Funeral of William Hutchings, of Penobscot, Maine.

Aged 101 years, 6 months and 28 days ; The last Revolutionary Pensioner in New England—the last but one in the United States.

The health of Mr. Hutchings had been for several weeks declining ; and after suffering much on Sunday, April 29, the signs of approaching death were manifest. But as his life had been unusually protracted, so he was long in dying. It was not until the noon of Thursday that he entered into rest. He retained his consciousness to the last ; patient, calmly, confidently trusting in that Saviour whom, for 68 years, as a professed disciple, he had endeavored to follow.

On Monday afternoon, May 7, a large concourse, many from the neighboring towns, gathered at his late residence in Penobscot, to attend the funeral solemnities. His descendants are counted by hundreds, extending to the fifth generation, of whom a large number came together on the occasion. Mr. Hutchings had previously selected, as the text for his funeral discourse, Matt. xxii, 40 —"On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

The Pastor, Rev. Mr Plummer of Penobscot, in accordance with his request, preached an appropriate sermon from this text—a text well becoming the spirit of the departed veteran in whose life, love to God and love to man was conspicuous.

After the discourse, the Rev. A. C. Ives of Castine, being invited to address the audience, followed Mr. Plummer in some remarks. Having subsequently been requested to write out his discourse, Mr. Ives has furnished the substance of his address, as follows :

"The first thought which suggests itself—and it is only unpremeditated thought which I present—is this, that the last link which connects us with the distant past has been sundered. In previous years, but less frequently as time has run on, we have met the old soldiers of the Revolution. Of late, William Hutchings has been the only representative in New England of that honored band. His was the only living lips that could tell us from what they personally knew of those times which tried men's souls. He alone remained of the men who heard the whistle of the bullet on those battle-fields. And now, those lips are sealed : that witness is dead. For the future, we can learn the facts of those times only as recorded in history—no more as told in story. And of those facts how few are recorded! As these old soldiers have left us—as the last has now gone—how much goes with them sealed up in the grave—lost forever to the world.

Aged 101 years, 6 months, 28 days : he was an old man when most of us were born. His life goes far back into the past. When he was a child the man was still living who had conversed with survivors of the May Flower. When he was a child the man was living who had heard the soldiers of Oliver Cromwell rehearse the story of his battles. Nineteen such lives will take us back to the time when the form of the Son of God was seen on earth!

We, poring over the volumes of past history, learn the facts which transpired in his manhood. He was 36 years old when Washington died. He had passed the point which marked the meridian of life when Napoleon assumed the crown as Emperor of France. The French Revolution, the successive changes which have since passed over that country, over Europe and this Continent, have transpired as if under his eye. He might have heard Whitefield preach in his early life. He had nearly reached adult years when Wesley, whose name he loved, was in his prime.

He was in Castine when the British took possession of the place, June 17, 1779, being then a youth. He saw them as they first stepped on the shore, near the foot of Main street, hesitating and turning, looking first to the right and then to the left, as if in expectation of an opposing force. He was pressed into the service of the enemy, and compelled to assist in drawing the first stick of timber in the foundation of Fort George, which crowns the eminence of the Peninsula. From a height outside the British lines he witnessed the landing the landing of the American forces at Castine, July 28th of the same year. He was witness to the engagement that ensued, which he calls 'the battle of Bagaduce," in which was wounded Sir John Moore, celebrated in his life and death in the amous campaign of the Spanish Peninsula. He was fifteen years old when he enlisted as a soldier in the Revolutionary army.

How changed the country since that time! Then, thirteen feeble colonies skirted the shores of the Atlantic. Now, those colonies have become free States, increasing till they num ber thirty-eight, and spreading over the Alleghanies, across the broad valley, to the Rocky Mountains and beyond, till they find their limit at the Western Ocean. Then, the population was barely three millions ; now, it is thirty-three millions ; and the increase of wealth has quadrupled with every doubling of the population. The single State of New York has now more population and ten times the wealth and military resources of the United Colonies of that day. And it shows the character of the men of that age, that, although few in number, and poor, yet in behalf of Liberty and Right they would adventure upon a warfare with the first military power of the world.

What a change has passed over the face of society within the lifetime of William Hutchings. The steamboat was a thing unknown in his early life. There was no railroad, no magnetic telegraph, no mowing machine, not even a horse rake—the scythe snath was a crooked stick, taken as it grew. They dressed in homespun ; the carding, spinning and weaving were done at home. A furnace or stove for warming a house was a thing never dreamed of. They breathed the pure air, ate plain food, went to bed with the dark and rose with the dawn. They knew nothing of newspapers but read the Bible and went to meeting Sundays. They believed in the 'two great commandments'.—They were the men to fight for liberty and to live a hundred years !

Soon after the outbreak of the late rebellion, I visited him. His sentiments and feelings were fully apreast of the age. He believed in the Declaration of Independence ; his blood was up to the fever heat of Revolutionary days. Let us bless God that his life was spared to see the question settled ; that the great boon secured by the Revolution has not been lost,—that we still have a country. Let us bless God that he was permitted to live till the old flag, dishonored at Sumter, was again there triumphantly unfurled to the breeze, floating again, unchallenged, the proud ensign of liberty to all the people over this broad land.

The veterans of the Revolution have been more honored as they have grown older and as their number has diminished. Especial interest, for this reason, has of late years attached to our departed friend and father.—Penobscot River and Bay have been well known, as widely as the commerce of Maine and of the United States has extended. But the town of Penobscot has been distinguished of late, not so much for the eminence or enterprise of its citizens, but as the home of William Hutchings.

In him were exemplified the worth and the power of the gospel, comforting and supporting him during a long life ; giving adornment to his character, more marked by contrast as the peculiarities of old age increased. His heart never grew old. The warmth of his love to Jesus Christ, and to all who bear His name, and his love to all men, were not diminished by the winter of age. He has laid aside and left behind a body weakened and worn out. Only the mortal grows old. He has again taken on youth ; no longer old and enfeebled, he has entered, with the vigor and elasticity of immortal life, upon his endless career."

It was the request of Mr. Hutchings that the American flag should cover his coffin as he was borne to his burial and be unfurled to the breeze at his grave. This was done. The following stanzas, suggested by this request, was composed by a daughter of Mr. Hutchings and read at the grave. When the stanza, "Now raise it aloft" was read, the flag was run up, unfurling the stars and stripes :

Dear Father is gone! place the flag o'er his breast ;
He has gone to that land where the weary find rest:
Then spread the flag over his dear lifeless form,
Which he honored while living through sunshine and storm.

A hundred long years has his pilgrimage been,
To battle with sorrow, temptation and sin.
His battles are fought, and the victory won,
His hardships are ended, and he has gone home.'

Then lay the flag over his lifeless remains—
His soul has escaped to the mansion it claims
The jewel has flown to those mansions so fair ;
The casket is empty—no jewel is there.

Though lost in our sight it is brighter than ever—
It has found a new casket beyond the dark river.
Which ne'er will grow old—it will never decay,
But always shine bright as the sun at noon-day.

Then place the flag over him—he was noble and brave ;
Let the stars and the stripes bear him on to his grave ;
He was one of the heroes that fought by its side,
When England stood o'er us aloft in her pride.

Now raise it aloft! on the breeze let it ride!
Dear Father, we have with your wishes complied ;
We have spread the flag over thy cold lifeless form
And now let it be to the Heavens upborne!

We know dearest Father, thy form we shall misss ;
Thy prayers for our welfare, and kind, loving kiss ;
But we feel we shall meet thee in yonder bright home—

Farewell, honored Father, farewell till we come!

In 1768 Charles Hutchings emigrated from York to Penobscot. He was the father of William, who was born Oct. 6, 1764. After the English took Castine, which was then a part of Penobscot, the family, suffering much persecution for their loyalty removed, at much sacrifice of property, to the present town of Newcastle, returning again after the close of the war to Penobscot, where the family and many of their descendents have since resided. William Hutchings enlisted as a soldier in 1779, when about 15 years old. At a subsequent period he was for a time master of a vessel, and ever after born the title of Captain Hutchings. Contrary to the statement in a former biographical notice, Wm. Hutchings, for many years, has advocated and practiced total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks. His memory was retentive. Not long since he related an incident occurring in Castine harbor when he was about four years old. An interesting circumstance was related by him of having once conversed with a British soldier, afterwards settled at Brooksville, who was in the assault on Bunker Hill. After the first fire of the Americans, looking around, he saw standing only four besides himself, of those who had marched up to the redoubt.

The Merchants' National Bank failure is being thoroughly investigated, and much blame will have to be placed somewhere.—It is certain that when the bank became so deeply involved with Bayne & Co., the Baltimore stock speculators, as to make its security depend on the success of their speculations in gold and fancy stocks, its officers deliberately set about obtaining two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars more of government money through Lieut. Col. Paulding, an army paymaster, to give to the tottering fortunes of the Baltimore stock-gamblers. This officer's conduct is being investigated, and it is said by his friends that he will show that he acted in accordance with the advice of Treasury officials. It is also show that on the 10th of April Freeman Clarke, Comptroller of the Currency, was officially notified that the bank was unsound, yet that subsequently the disbursing officer of the Treasury Department placed some twenty-four thousand dollars on deposit, which was swallowed up with the rest.—[Special to Boston Journal.

TAX ON NATIONAL BANKS. Mr. Blaine of Maine, offered the following, and the House unanimously adopted it :

Whereas, By the recent direction of the Supreme Court of the United States, the stock of National Banks is made subject to the same rate of taxation with other property, by State and municipal authority ; therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee of Ways and Means be instructed to inquire into the expediency of removing all taxes levied by the National Government on said banks, except the half per cent. per annum on the average amount of their deposits.—[Special to Boston Journal.

—C. Codle, Brevet-Col, and A. A. G. has notified Mr. J. Williams, Mayor of Selma, Ala., that punishing freedmen by putting them in the chain gang must be immediately discontinued. As that punishment is not being inflicted on whites, he regards it, when inflicted upon the freedmen, as a gross violation of the Civil Rights bill.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

It is said that Jeff. Davis is to be tried under the act of July 17, 1862. This act provides that any one who shall be adjudged guilty of treason shall suffer death, or at the discretion of the Court shall be imprisoned for not less than five years and fined not less than $10,000. Any one who shall engage in or give aid and comfort to any existing rebellion or insurrection shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding ten years or by fine not exceeding $10,000, or by both punishments at the discretion of the Court. It is the opinion among the lawyers here, that the arch rebel cannot be convicted of treason before a Virginia jury, and that even his conviction for having engaged in the rebellion, would be doubtful.

The President has signed the Habeas Corpus bill to prevent Union officers and officials from being prosecuted for arrests or acts done in suppression of the rebellion.—[Sp. to Boston Journal.

PERJURY.

BY CHARLES SWAIN.

'Twas coming from the village church
I saw my false love nigh—
I said—"Oh shame me not my heart
But let me pass him by."
And as the color left my cheek
The tear forsook my eye;
And with a timid step and weak
I passed my false love by.

He looked and thought perchance to see
The blush and tear of old;
But I was cold as he could be,
That is, I seemed as cold.
For fast and fast my heart did fill,
Mine eyes could hold no more;
He might have seen I loved him still
Had I not gained the door.

I hurried to my own dear room,
I knelt me down to pray;
But still no firmness could assume,
My tears they would have way.
Oh! false, false lips—Oh faithless heart,
Oh base, unmanly sin,
To seek for years to win a heart,
And make its love,—its shame.

The Sad of Heart.

There are some hearts which tho' exempt
From what the world esteems as woe,
Oft have with many a bitter pang
Which only they who feel it know.
No sign of woe, or mark of care
The world upon the brow may trace;
But that is the most painful grief
That hides behind a smiling face.

How many weep o'er follies past,
That to the world were never known.
How many hearts in secret sigh
O'er cherished hopes forever flown.
Too oft when others think us gay,
We only smile to hide a tear;
And when the heart is all unstrung
We laugh to drown the discord there.

CONTEMPT OF COURT. In a village not a thousand miles from the city, there lives a quiet, unobtrusive young lawyer. A modest fellow is M——, (merit is always modest), but he knows his rights, 'and knowing, dares maintain them.' Like a great many others, he is 'following the practice,' and anticipates a glorious time when he overtakes it.

Some time ago, having been retained in some cases, he made his appearance before an august dignitary—a Justice of Peace. 'His Honor' evidently lost faith in M—— at first sight; for one after another of his cases 'collapsed' under the stunning charges delivered by the Court.

The law and the testimony were alike unavailing. M——'s cases were bound to go. At last human nature would bear no more. M——, rising from his seat, delivered himself in his usual slow and measured manner:

'The Court can fine me $5.'

'For what, Mr. M——?' said the Justice, somewhat surprised.

'For contempt of Court,' cooly rejoined Mr. M——.

'I am not aware, Mr. M——,' said the Court, of your having been guilty of anything that might be considered contempt.'

'I know your Honor is not aware of it,' said M——, 'but I entertain a secret contempt for this Court.'

A TEACHER'S TROUBLES. There is living on Martha's Vineyard, an old man who has never been off the island, and the extent of his knowledge is bounded by the confines of his home. He has been told of a war between the North and South, but as he had never heard the din of battle nor seen any soldiers, he considered it a hoax. He is utterly unable to read, and is ignorant to the last degree. An excellent story is told of his first and only day at school. He was quite a lad when a lady came to the district where his father resided to teach school. He was sent, and as the teacher was classifying the school, he was called up in turn and interrogated as to his former studies. Of course he had to say that he had never been to school, and knew none of his letters. The teacher gave him a seat on one side until she had finished the preliminary examination of the rest of the scholars. She then called him to her, and drew on the black-board the letter A, and told him what it was and asked him to remember how it looked. He looked at it a moment, and then inquired (he stuttered):

'H-h-how do you know it's A?'

The teacher replied that when she was a little girl she had been to school to an old gentleman, who told so.

The boy eyed the A for a moment and then asked, 'H-h-how did he know?'

This was almost a stumper, but the teacher suddenly recollected that he had told her that when a boy he had been to school to a lady who taught him that it was A.

The boy eyed the letter a little longer, when he burst out with, 'H-h-how did he know but she l-l-lied?'

The teacher could not get over this obstacle, and the poor boy was sent home as incorrigible.

A LESSON OF TRUST. Some time ago, a boy was discovered in Clairborn street, evidently bright and intelligent, but sick. A man, who had the feeling of kindness strongly developed, went to ask what he was doing there.

'Waiting for God to come for me,' said he.

'What do you mean,' said the gentleman, touched by the pathetic tone of the answer, and the condition of the boy, in whose eye and flushed face he saw the evidence of fever.

'God sent for mother, and father, and little brother,' said he, 'and took them away to His home up in the sky, and mother told me, when she was sick, that God would take care of me. I have no home, nobody to give me anything, and so I came out here, and have been looking so long up in the sky for God to come and take care of me, as mother said he would. He will come won't he? Mother never told me a lie,'

'Yes, my lad,' said the man overcome with emotion, 'He has sent me to take care of you.'

You should have seen his eyes flush, and the smile of triumph break over his face, as he said:

'Mother never told me a lie, sir; but you have been so long on the way.'

A Baptist minister visiting the oil region in Kentucky, found one of his brethren actively engaged in the work of getting petroleum, who insisted that it was an altogether Scriptural occupation, Job having been in the oil business. Some doubt being expressed at this novel statement, he at once got a Bible, and turning to Job 29, 6, read: 'The rock poured me out rivers of oil.' 'Now' says he, 'what use do you suppose Job had for three thousand camels and five hundred yoke of oxen, unless it was to carry his oil to market? He certainly did not need that many for farming. As they had no railroads then, he needed them if he had a flowing well of oil.' He says he gives this interpretation for the benefit of his ministering brethren engaged in this business, hoping they will use their oleaginous wealth, when they get it, as liberally as Job did his.—N. TAKE CARE OF YOUR LIFE!

SEELY'S

Patent Metallic Sole.

A NEW INVENTION.

WETTING THE FEET is the most prolific cause of disease and death known to humanity. It is almost sure to bring on a cold; and colds, neglected, and often when not neglected, lead to fevers or to coughs and fatal consumptions. It is in recognition of this truth that the inventive talent of the country has for years been devising some method, or attempting to devise it, for keeping the feet dry, and yet that should not give inconvenience to the wearer. Rubber shoes, in one form or another, have hitherto been our reliance; but it is well known, as among their many evils, that while they keep the feet dry from external moisture, they sweat them over much and by thus inducing an undue tenderness increase a susceptibility to colds rather than otherwise.—They are also cumbersome to the feet, and withal are very expensive. The demand is for something that shall make the ordinary Boot and Shoe impervious to water, without effecting their elegance or durability, and, if possible, without adding sensibly to the cost of manufacture. These, it will be conceded, are most important features, and we conscientiously affirm that they are absolutely attained in the invention herewith presented to the public.

The invention consists in inserting between the inner and outer sole, when the boot is making, a thin METALLIC PLATE, exceedingly ductile, combining flexibility with toughness, very light, and every way adapted to the end desired, while the additional expense is merely nominal. It furnishes a perfect barrier against the admission of wet or dampness, though the feet may be exposed over so long upon wet pavements or damp ground.

To ladies and children the METALLIC SOLES will be of incalculable value, as from their habits of life and delicacy of dress, they are particularly exposed to the long train of ills that attend upon an inadequate protection to the feet.

These Soles have already been tried by the best of all tests, ACTUAL USE, and the testimonials to their merits, freely proffered, indicate that they must be speedily and universally adopted by the public. The Patent Metallic Soled Boots and Shoes are being introduced into the leading Boot and Shoe Stores throughout the United States, and will supplant all forms of overshoes, except possibly for deep mud and snow, as they become known. Be sure to get them and no other. If your shoemaker does not happen to have them, he can procure them without difficulty. If he will not, then send yourself to the inventor one dollar and thirty cents, and obtain six pair, assorted sizes, with right to use, which will be promptly forwarded by mail or express, pre-paid, and which can be made up by any shoemaker in the country. Agencies will be established in every city and village, and supplied with Soles and proprietary stamps, at schedule prices, and liberal commission allowed on sales. Also General Agencies for States appointed on application, with proper testimonials to the inventor.

Samuel J. Seely,

General Depot, corner City Hall Place and Read street, New York.

TESTIMONIALS.

"The undersigned have for the past six months worn Boots and Shoes possessing Mr. Seely's METALLIC SOLE, and find them to be an effectual preventive against dampness, and the colds so often taken from damp feet, most gladly do we testify to the perfect efficiency of their service. The Metallic Sole is not only a grand contribution to the cause of general health, but a positive luxury, obviating all necessity of India Rubber shoes, except in muddy weather. All ordinary dampness, and even water upon pavements, is completely foiled of its power of harm by this most simple and useful invention. No one who has once used them will ever be without them again, as they increase the cost of boots and shoes by a sum which is scarcely worth naming, and insure, positively, dry feet, which is reckoned among the first conditions of health and comfort. We heartily commend the "Metallic Sole" to all the sensible.

J. CLEMENT FRENCH,
Pastor Central Cong. Church, Brooklyn.
MARY A. FRENCH.
NEW YORK, Dec. 1865.

SAMUEL J. SEELY, Esq.:

Dear Sir—In reply to your inquiries regarding your Patent Metallic Sole, I take great pleasure in stating that I had them put in a pair of fine calf skin boots, which I wore the whole of last winter in the wet streets of Albany. I have had them half soled since, and am wearing your Metallic Soles now, with full intention never to be without them. I have not had a wet or damp foot during the whole time I have worn them. I pronounce them the best insole yet made. I am satisfied that no person having once worn them will do without them—Wishing you the success you deserve for so valuable an invention for the preservation of health,

I remain truly yours,
SAMUEL JEFFERSON,
Contractor, New York.

MR. SAMUEL J. SEELY:

Dear Sir—I take great pleasure in offering my testimony to the usefulness and comfort of your patent Metallic Sole. I have used a pair of these soles for the past seven months, furnished with this Sole, and feel no hesitation in saying that I have never worn shoes that combined so perfectly the desirable qualities of lightness and durability.

EMMA OVERTON, Brooklyn, New York.

S. J. SEELY, Esq.:

Dear Sir—In answer to your request, I am pleased to state that I have manufactured shoes containing your Metallic Sole by machinery. I think them a superior article for keeping the feet dry. In manufacturing them there is no trouble from cutting the thread when sewing, nor any difficulty in putting them in the shoe. Respectfully yours,

SHELMAN PEARLBROOK,
Practical Shoe Manufacturer,

Other Securities Enumerated in Annual Report,		809,528 17

Referring to the annual statement of the Company and the dividend of $2,975,000 declared February 1, 1866, we present herewith some illustrations of the system by which it was allotted to policy holders.

The Company recognizes the principle that AMPLE SECURITY is a paramount consideration in Life Insurance, and neither in form or amount will any dividend be declared incompatible with that principle.

In addition to the proper reserve for re-insurance of outstanding risks, there still remains an undivided surplus of $1,200,000

DIVIDENDS will be declared annually hereafter, and may be used either to purchase more insurance, in reduction of premiums, or on "paid up" policies, they may be drawn in CASH on the date of each policy in any year.

Showing the Annually Increasing Dividends in this Company on Life Policies of $10,000 each, other amounts in same proportion.

*The annual dividends on these policies exceed the annual premiums So that a policy holder, by applying his dividends to the payment of future premiums, not only avoids all further outlay, but his policy annually increases in amount.

The dividends on policies of a more recent date, including those issued last year, may be applied in like manner to the full extent of their accumulations.

Insurers who do not thus apply their dividends, have the full benefit of the large additions to their policies, as shown in the above table, and may, at any future period use such portions of their dividends in the payment of any one or more premiums, as they may desire.

☞ It will be noticed as a peculiarity of our system, that while the dividends are moderate at the beginning, as all dividends must be which are declared upon just and equitable principles, yet they rapidly increase each year as the policy grows older, so that eventually the insurance becomes paid up in full.

Endowment Policies,

Payable either at death or to the persons insured, on their arriving at specified ages.

This favorite form of insurance or investment is of a more recent date, and the following examples will suffi hu

All of the above policies have been paid to the owners, and it will be seen that they receive a SURPLUS above all they have paid to the Company, with compound interest at six per cent., and no charge whatever for expenses or cost of insurance meanwhile.

STATE OF MAINE.

OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE,
Augusta, March 1, 1866.

CIRCULAR

THE Act of the 23d of February last, providing pensions for certain classes of disabled soldiers and the widows and minor children of those deceased) of the War of 1861, will necessarily impose upon the State Department duties somewhat analagous to those of the Pension Bureau at Washington; though of a comparatively limited character. Considerable time will therefore be required by the Council, in whom is vested the supervision of the new department of business, in determining the mode of procedure and preparing the requisite blanks therefor.

Early in the ensuing May session of that Honorable body, forms and regulations, with a copy of the law, will be promulgated.

Applicants under this statute, who are, or may be, in the receipt of a pension from the United States Government, will not require the assistance of agents or attorneys in preparing or presenting their claims for the State pension.

Secretary of State.
